Field Trip to Southeastern U.S. — Summer, 1957

Plant collections and others on page 157

July 21 Left Cambridge at 3:40. Rt. via Rt #9 - #20 - #15 + the Merritt Pkway to NY; + Rt 1 + — to Pennsville ferry + 40 + 1 to Wash. arrived Wash. DC at 5:30 AM - Exhausting drive, especially after the delays + work of the past week.

Weather good - warm, no rain. Traffic fairly heavy, but not as much as expected. The worst parts of the trip from Boston to Wash. continue to be Rt 20 in Mass and the stretch from Camden NJ to Pennsville. Stopped for meals twice + snacks twice Drove fairly slowly + took over 14 hrs for the trip - less than 500 miles

July 22 Got to bed (at 315 Franklin St) at 8:30 AM - up at 3:~~00~~. a very warm and humid day in Washington. Drove around in suburbs north of Wash until dark

Began to get sore throat this evening The schedule of the past few days is beginning to show.

July 23 – Washington, Virginia

Left DC about 8 PM, after a "delaying action" resulting from the large crowds. It was a very happy day for me and I look back on every part of it with good memory, and more, Somehow it is more than fulfillment of only a wish. It is a restitution of a "might-have-been" of my life.

Left Washington at 8:30. Went across Key Bridge and on south to Virginia. Stopped overnight at the Washington Hotel, Washington Virginia, a small, old fashioned wayside place. Simple but clean and pleasant. Very recommendable.

July 24 Wytheville, Virginia

Left Wadley's about 7 & took breakfast in a small unpainted kitchen just east of the road up to the Blue Ridge. Sun rose out very frightfully hot — worst Virginia I produced a complete flow. It was second that Va. was southern state in the Civil War.

Drove west on road up to Blue Ridge Pkwy — steep climb through dense forest. Near top the clouds closed in and we rode blind out of road. Pkwy attained and that the south south was closed in by clouds for at least 1 mile on this side. Took road down to Sherwood Valley. Down the valley to Wytheville, Va. Route is mostly through farm lands and broken hill country, chiefly well kept farms with orchards on the N slopes.

Weather: Cloudy (overcast) the top of ridge; broke clouds in valley and hot. Towards cumulus building up over ridges of which there began in the country. Late in the day showers developed on the ridge, some with heavy thunder & lightning. No cause. Thunderstorm until near Bristol. Late when a heavy thunderstorm developed in direction S.W. Stopped in Bristol for dinner and remained for night. Encountered one heavy rain today – very limited

mobility.

After dinner drove to Wythville
– good roads, as being the day all the way.

Good supper & the usual hospitable welcome at home of [illegible] property

July 25 I am sent by Bryson City N.C. on Bryson Tourist Road.

One of the most remarkable days I have ever known for scenery, lofty climbs and endless longeurs of mountains piled one on the other in the longest Tier.

The road winds from Wylie's gap through deeply wooded hills, with forest that interspersed with wood, stony hills, bank with and stalking beneath the deep and wooded sides of Spring & I entered the Blue Ridge Parkway and leaves it. There is a most unusual road and is in every respect a parkway — no intersections, houses, signs or stops of any kind — also no [illegible] cultivation. The road follows the crest of the Blue Ridge for hours on end, south from the Shenandoah Valley. At the intersection with Skyline of several parallels the crest of the ridge is wide, flat & green above tree crest of the ridge.

July 26 Gettysburg, Penn. Cross Mills count arrived in Gett. about 11:30. Tried to get rooms at Eagle House Rest taken, but we spent awhile in any patch the place nearly every room
the accommodations but not excellent such, in view of current charges, quite reasonable $3 per day. Sudden rend in lower quarter. The big battle, such is this, is the most conspicuous monument in this neighborhood.
Weather moderate, some showery
clouds but mostly clear all afternoon

July 27 Gatherling Town

Today began bright & clear but quickly became pretty overcast. Then heavy showers intervened & we had to wait in the Aleutian Jap until it was dry for the short trip to Chuning Tsapu. Stopped to swim in the bathing stream where the Indian Jap Town crosses the stream. Left for home at 4 & took short cut to Chuning Zome.

July 22 Gottenburg Sweden.

Up at 6 this morning from 8 to 10 we were having unusual degree to come over from the south west. Tide rose rapidly and began to rain, then heavy rain with Thunder & lightning until about noon – a mild Thunderstorm. We will depend largely on such bright 1/2 a day until mid afternoon, then cloudy. Cleared up west about 6:30 PM

Attempted to go swimming this a.m., but rain changed plans. Spent the day in Gottenburg.

Yesterday they up & changed from gave my time the worst going over yet. After the wind, the past week they are not subject to attitude changes. Coming down yesterday felt like being submerged several hundred feet in water. Went to Sjöbo in town & saw diagnosis – ethmoid-itis. Some inflammation in ear. Prescription in pure water & lung but probably because of the aspirin & codeine.

About noon, while still bringing the-[illegible] to explore road to Sacramento. I have since been over the trail. It is [illegible] road in poor condition & steep mountains for about 5 miles, then suddenly leaves the mountains and goes out on the rolling plain, just south of the water. The railroad [illegible] down northward with a rolling plain, emerging transition from the crystalline metamorphic rocks of the Sierras.

Spent most of the day in the Park Hgts 2 miles S. of town. Building is very well kept, shows a complete [illegible] or Theory more complete could be provided by a more extensive flora & fauna. They have a very good block relief map of the park, [illegible] 10 feet x 5 feet.

P.M. walked — Little River at the "Seeks" : 7.5

July 29 | Gatlinburg Tenn.

Weather nearly perfect today. Left Gatt. about noon & took wood down Little River valley to the "Seeks" The afternoon sun was with us until the mountains cut it off — a perfect day, along the road and a fair change from yesterday. The woods by the water fall was all that we could want for a warm summer afternoon.

P.M. – Sent from "I. Cooley"

July 20 Gettysburg Town

Today began sunny and warm and continued until about 11 Oo when clouds began to gather above us. Started out to the west along the Litter line road when the weather assumed that "dry the sky" it had [illegible]

July 21 Left Gettysburg about 2 P.M. - stopped at Jim Cox's Grist mill on road up to Gap. Cox old fashioned type small wheel (2½ ft) carried out 1 a 4 x 5" plank. Mill not working.

Stopped at Carnegie Image Station & looked at the monitors & various exhibits. Very worth visit.

Stopped at Chambersburg. Time [illegible] 40 C. about 95 min. Left Chambersburg about 5 P.M. Road to Pittsburgh City, then south on N.C. to Frankfort, then to Connellsville. Stopped at Connellsville, new motorcycle exchanged - 4/50. Started on detour about midnight. Quite difficult finding place to stay - finally located a motel south of city at 3:30 A.M.!

The country south of Pittsburgh City to Connellsville very picturesque - on transition of the Dunkard Mts but lower elevation & very sparsely settled. Mt is [illegible] hard and [illegible]

Aug 1 Left J & G [illegible] Mountain Train, at [illegible] — [illegible] Atlanta at 11:15. Lunch in Atlanta at the Big 4 Wheels — left Atlanta on Rt #78 west. Weather pt cldy a few showers on the way from Atlanta. Then all afternoon [illegible] clearing to Birmingham. In Birmingham about 7 [illegible] E.S.T.

On the way west stopped at clay pit = mi c + Hall city Open pit shaping nutty clay [illegible] up & manufact - almost [illegible] mill "Tempo" Has mottled gray [illegible] & brownish tempo [illegible] also angular fragments of appearance to be [illegible], [illegible] & [illegible] Area is flat; pale & [illegible] color, [illegible] pure

Terrain from Atlanta west is rolling plain, slaty [illegible] ridge, [illegible] & very [illegible] nutty red. But rock a phyllite or schist, folded in place, [illegible] [illegible] weathering [illegible] deep [illegible] with abundant ancient dwellings or cliffs, magnificently picturesque in deep red rock.

Stopped in Talladega, Ala. Took car in Alabama. Big crowds – great (P Trade & what appeared to be Squatters) and well dressed – & enthusiastic. Lunchedon & hospitable. Place is quite abundant along partially cleared streets.

Drove into campus of Alabama Univ. large & well built – fine buildings & landscaping. Spent some sightseeing and students got with the girls.

Got started at 7:30 the 8th and out on Bailey's Lake by 9:15. Mrs Barton came down to see us in her small boat with outboard. Went down the lake to the fork where submerged drainage begins the lake. Then up to the fork - Alligator Lake & Bailey Island run. Went up to south end of Alligator Lake - flow through large cypress. Vegetation has in general by relative small number of species of trees. The central region of Okefenokee seems to have a certain ecological complex of rather limited variety.

Collected all of Lecithis.

Today thunderstorm began to build up a bit later than the past 4 days - an heavy black cloud until nearly 3 P.M. Got out the canal and on the highway at Fargo by 3 P.M. - down above to S.W.

DR. PEDRO CUE, 54, CUBAN JOURNALIST

Winner of Maria Moors Cabot Award, Retired Publisher of El Mundo in Havana, Dies

HAVANA, July 13 (UP)—Dr. Pedro Cue, noted newspaper publisher and politician, died today of a cerebral hemorrhage at the age of 54.

As publisher of El Mundo, one of Havana's chief newspapers, Dr. Cue won the Maria Moors Cabot award for the promotion of Inter-American understanding. He sold El Mundo to a syndicate in August, 1949, for a reported price of $750,000. He was a former Senator and one-time Havana University professor of law.

His widow, Rosa, survives.

Defended Machado Opponents

Born in Santa Clara, Cuba, Dr. Cue studied law at the University of Havana. From 1918 to 1920 he studied at the University of Rome.

In 1931 he entered politics as an attorney for the defense of a group of young men accused of plotting against the Machado regime. In September, 1932, he was obliged to seek asylum in the Uruguayan Legation in Havana. Subsequently, he made safe conduct to this country, where he remained in exile until the downfall of Machado.

After his return home he became a member of the national council that attempted to serve as a Provisional Government. Three years later he was elected to the Cuban Senate.

Dr. Cue received the Maria Moors Cabot award "for distinguished service in advancing international friendship in the Western Hemisphere" in a ceremony in the Low Memorial Library at Columbia University in December, 1943, from the hand of the late Dr. Nicholas M...

'STOLEN TREASURE' IN STATE FOLK LORE

Pennsylvanian Recounts Two Tales of Gold and Silver Loot in Early Days

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania folklore contains two stirring tales of hidden treasure, Henry W. Shoemaker, president of the Pennsylvania Folklore Society, says.

"One is the legend of the robbery of the wagon train carrying gold to General George Washington's army at the Great Lakes," Mr. Shoemaker continues. "The other is the tale of the reputed cache of the Pirate Blackbeard's treasure in a cave in southeastern McKean County that modern searchers have failed to find.

"The hold-up and robbery of General Washington's gold-laden wagon train occurred in 1777 near the forks of the Sinnemahoning below the present community of Driftwood, while the train was en route to the Boon road, which had been cut across the mountains from near Westport, Clinton County, to Niagara.

Robbery by Girty Gang

"The notorious Simon Girty and his gang are credited with being the perpetrators of this robbery. Girty loaded his loot on a raft and took it down the Susquehanna River to his hideaway on the west bank of the stream across from Fort Halifax. Washington's paymasters are reputed to have been the crew of the raft and, after helping Girty bury his treasure, they all mysteriously disappeared.

"Later, after the War of 1812, when as captain of His Majesty's Scouts, Girty had covered himself with glory for the British at Lundy's Lane, he returned in 1816 and removed his gold in a farm wagon, the top covered with bags of potatoes.

"About the same time William Thomas (some called him 'Blackbeard' after an earlier and more infamous buccaneer) started with a wagon train of silver bars, taken from a British wreck off Cape Henlopen. However, because of the second war with Great Britain, it was impossible to reach Ontario in safety, so the treasure was buried in a cave on what came to be known as the Silver Mine Branch of Salt Works Run in southeastern McKean County.

"The valuable hoard was left by Blackbeard in charge of three seamen who departed when they were informed of Blackbeard's sudden death at Lewes, Del.

"In 1826 a tall, handsome, soldierly stranger arrived at the Portage in the person of Col. Noah Parker who, local gossip insisted, had come as watcher of the hidden fortune on the Salt Works until orders came for its removal. The dashing colonel seemed to be in comfortable circumstances, was a keen sportsman, and in time erected an imposing brick mansion at the mouth of Salt Works Run.

"Pirate" Marries Mountain Girl

"Evidently to prove that he would remain in the locality indefinitely, he put up an impressive brick and granite mausoleum and married a beautiful young mountain girl.

"These structures were the marvel of travelers when the railroad was opened from Emporium Junction to Buffalo, N. Y., in 1872. Colonel Parker spent much time hunting and fishing and generally his trips took him into the region of the treasure trove. He was also a spirited writer on outdoor life. Colonel Parker early discovered the curative properties of the Parker Springs and the waters of the Great Elk Lick, but the saline ingredients were lost by bottling. In the course of time, the Colonel passed on and rests in his mausoleum, now falling asunder. No successor came after him and 'Blackbeard's' hoard still awaits a discoverer."

Vandals' Slogans in Park Call for 'Hands Off Korea'

Apparently the work of Communists, slogans printed in crude lettering were found yesterday on boulders and playgrounds in Central Park between West 100th and West 102d Street, calling for "Hands off Korea—Peace."

One of the slogans was painted in pink letters two feet high. On the bottom of an empty wading pool for children, opposite West 100th Street, there was painted in blue letters: "Hands off Korea—We Want Peace." The same slogan was repeated on a big boulder near a children's baseball field.

The police had no clues to help identify the perpetrators. A man who had walked his dog at 4:45 A. M. reported that the boulders were not defaced at that time.

CORNELL GETS OLD BIBLES

Acquisition Includes Rare Items on Pennsylvania Germans

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ITHACA, N. Y., June 23—Rare Pennsylvania German Bibles and prayer books, printed in colonial times, have been acquired by the Cornell University Library in a 4,000-peice collection on German-American culture.

The items were gathered by Dr. A. B. Faust, professor emeritus of German at Cornell, who died in January. Dr. Faust used the material for his book, "The German Element in the United States," published in 1909. He taught at Cornell from 1905 until his retirement in 1938.

Among the Pennsylvania German items are three editions of Christopher Sower's German Bibles, reputedly the first Bibles printed in America in a European language. The acquisition also includes material on Goethe and Heine and the German Novelle and naturalistic drama.
